TAUP/Temple Contract Talks Continue

Faculty and students are enjoying spring break while TAUP continues to work toward a fair contract settlement with Temple University. Talks between TAUP and Temple management have been ongoing through the state mediator.

Temple's financial condition is strong enough to provide decent raises. Its revenues from tuition have been increasing over the last several years, and the federal stimulus package restores state funding levels. We are confident that a fair agreement can be reached soon.

TAUP appreciates the support of the faculty, librarians, academic professionals, students, parents, alumni and general public, and will continue to keep everyone informed of our progress on our website (www.taup.org)

Enjoy your break,
The TAUP Negotiating Team
